What is personal data?

The term 'personal data' refers to any information that identifies you or can be used to identify a data subject when used in conjunction with other information.

The term 'data subject' describes the person to whom the personal data relates.

What personal data do we collect about you?

We process personal data about visitors to our website, prospective, current, and past: students and their parents; staff and contractors; donors and supporters; and other individuals connected with or visiting our school.

The personal data we process takes different forms. Examples include:

- names, addresses, telephone numbers, e-mail addresses, emergency contact information;
- IP addresses, location data, and website statistics and analytics;
- website cookies;
- students' date of birth, nationality, and family details;
- admissions, academic, disciplinary and other education-related records, references, examination scripts and marks;
- parents' employment data;
- images, audio and video recordings;
- financial information and identification documents (e.g. for bursary assessment or for fundraising);
- employee and former employee data, including recruitment, training, performance management, payroll, and other HR information.
- Criminal records (considered 'special category' or 'sensitive' in some jurisdictions)

As a school, from time to time we also need to process personal data that is designated as 'sensitive' or 'special category personal data' in order to facilitate our school operations and activities. Such data includes personal data regarding a data subject concerning, but not limited to:

- health;
- special education needs;
- biometric data (e.g. fingerprints)
- information relating to safeguarding and child protection/welfare
- race ethnicity; or
- religion.

How do we obtain your information?

We collect most of the personal data we process directly from the data subject concerned (or often, in the case of students, from their parents). In some cases, we collect data from third parties (for example, referees/references and previous schools) or from publicly available resources.

- You are employed by us or an organisation with whom we have a business relationship.

How do we use your personal data?

Whenever we use (or “process”) any personal data (sensitive/special category or otherwise), we do so in accordance with applicable laws and regulations (including with respect to safeguarding or employment). Personal data held by us is processed by appropriate members of staff for the purposes for which the data was provided.

We take appropriate technical and organisational steps to ensure the security of personal data about individuals, including policies around the use of technology and devices and access to school systems.

In the course of school business, we share personal data (including special category personal data where appropriate) with third parties such as examination boards, the schools’ nurse or doctor, the schools’ professional advisors, and relevant authorities. We may also be required to share your personal data with other organisations for legal or statutory purposes, or where we have your consent to do so.

We may also share data in order to facilitate parental participation. Moreover, some of our systems are managed or operated by third parties (e.g., hosted databases, school websites, school calendars, school posts, or cloud storage providers).

Our schools implement high-quality educational and administrative Artificial Intelligence (AI) tools, which we believe will enhance the experience of students, parents, and our staff.

We do not input any personal information, such as name, date of birth, address, school, email address, or any other personal information, into an AI tool unless required to create an account on your behalf. We will not implement AI tools that use input or output data to train an AI learning model. We never share sensitive personal information with an AI tool.

The schools’ use of AI tools is governed by the AI Policy.

Sharing data with these parties is always subject to contractual assurances that personal data will be kept securely and only in accordance with our specific directions. We do not transfer personal data you have provided unless we are satisfied that the personal data will be afforded an equivalent level of protection.

Upon enrolment each year, each student’s family will be notified, via a standardised letter included in each enrolment packet, about the service providers we use to facilitate our school’s online learning experience. This will include any artificial intelligence (AI) tools in use.

Additionally, the school will provide information to each pupil/parent (which can include relevant personal data of the respective child) as necessary to facilitate school operations.

Moreover, we may transfer data to other countries, but in doing so, we will rely either on the existence of adequacy agreements or upon standard contractual clauses as part of agreements with data processors. For more information on how we transfer data to other countries, it is available upon request by contacting our Data Protection Officer at GDPR@wsnl.co.uk.

What is our legal basis for processing your personal data?

We may process your personal data for the above purposes based on one or more of the following legal bases, this list not being exhaustive:

- We have an individual's consent to do so (or their parent's, if appropriate). You can withdraw your consent at any time by emailing admissions@wsnl.co.uk.
- it is necessary for the performance of a contract (e.g. an employment contract with a member of staff);
- It is necessary for our compliance with our legal obligations. In this respect, we may use personal data to exercise or perform any right or obligation conferred or imposed by law in connection with employment and/or for the prevention and detection of crime, and in order to assist with investigations (including criminal investigations) carried out by the police and other competent authorities;
- It is necessary for our or a third party's legitimate interests. These "legitimate interests" include our interests in providing high-quality education, fostering relationships with those in the school community, and our interests in managing and operating the school to the best of our abilities.
- it is necessary to protect an individual's vital interests (in certain limited circumstances, for example, where a student has a life-threatening accident or illness while at school and we have to process that student's personal data in order to ensure the student receives prompt and appropriate medical attention);
- it is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims;
- it is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest, including safeguarding purposes;
- it is necessary for medical purposes, including medical diagnosis and the provision of health care or treatment for students, managing related health care systems, and/or for assessing the working capacity of staff;
- it is necessary for archiving, research or statistical purposes;

Consent

Under data protection laws, the rights belong to the individual to whom the data relates (i.e., the data subject). However, where consent is required as the lawful basis for processing personal data relating to students, we will often rely on parental consent unless, given the nature of the processing in question and the student's age and understanding, it is more appropriate to rely on the student's consent. Parents should be aware that in such situations they may not be consulted, depending on the interests of the child, the parents' rights at law or under their contract, and taking into account all the relevant circumstances.

In general, we will assume that students' consent is not required (and that other lawful bases are more appropriate, as described above) for ordinary disclosure of their personal data to their parents, e.g., for the purposes of keeping parents informed about the student's activities, progress, and behaviour and in the interests of the student's welfare, unless, in the school's opinion, there is a good reason to do otherwise.

However, where a student seeks to raise concerns confidentially with a member of staff and expressly withholds their agreement to their personal data being disclosed to their parents, we may be under an obligation to maintain confidentiality unless, in our opinion, there is a good reason to do otherwise; for example, where the school believes disclosure will be in the best interests of the student or other students or is required by law.

What are our responsibilities for looking after your personal data?

In every case, when we are collecting or using personal data, we will comply with the requirements of data protection legislation, including UK Data Protection law.

- receive from us the personal data we hold about you which you have provided to us in a reasonable format specified by you, including for the purpose of your transmitting that personal data to another data controller;
- object, on grounds relating to your particular situation, to any of our particular processing activities where you feel this has a disproportionate impact on your rights (including a right to object to receiving fundraising or communications and to object to our profiling you for the purposes of fundraising or keeping in touch);
- Where our processing is based on your consent, you may withdraw that consent without affecting the lawfulness of our processing based on consent before its withdrawal.
- Not be subject to decisions made about you solely by automated means (without any human involvement) or to profiling by automated means (to evaluate certain things about you).

If you would like to exercise any of your rights under the data protection law for which we are the data controller, please make your request by emailing us at GDPR@wsnl.co.uk .

Please note that these rights are not absolute, and we may be entitled or required to refuse requests where exceptions or exemptions apply.
